

Facilitators

National Museums Scotland

It is vital that you have proven experience of presenting information to groups, in particular groups of children, and ideally have done this within a museum, galleries or visitor attraction environment. It would be useful if you have a background in history, science, arts and crafts, drama, etc and have delivered events designed by others, but it is more important that you have a strong customer focus, are flexible in your approach and are a good team player.

Your hours of work will vary subject to our programme of events and schools bookings. National Museum of Flight is open seven days a week and the hours of work offered will reflect these operational requirements.

Details of this post and of all our vacancies can be viewed on www.nms.ac.uk.
